

Byas is the head coach for team Ezetap. He is a thought leader who brings a rare combination of financial acumen and operational intensity to the team. Byas took over as the CEO of Ezetap in November, 2018 and since then he has been making significant changes in the operational and strategic developments of the company.

Before taking up the role as CEO, Byas was Ezetap's CFO for four years. He has been instrumental in the successful funding rounds of the company. In his previous stints, he has worked with large corporations in leadership positions. He was the Financial Controller of Intel, India and has also held leadership positions at Intel, USA.

He has done his MBA from Tepper School of Business (Carnegie Mellon University) and MS in Mechanical Engineering from Marquette University.

Byas is an automobile enthusiast. In his free time, he loves spending time in his garage and working on his vintage car collection.