

Tim is Co-founder and CEO at My Clinical Outcomes (MCO), a digital Patient-Reported Outcomes Measures (PROMs) platform for routine clinical practice. MCO allows doctors to remotely measure and track the outcomes that matter to their patients throughout their care, to make the right clinical decisions at the right time for all patients and improve the value of care pathways. Prior to starting MCO in 2011, Tim worked as a doctor and healthcare management consultant in the UK's National Health Service having trained in medicine at Oxford University and Kings College Hospital, London.